Pageant: The Musical There will be sparkle, glitter, sequins, shimmer and high heels!

TULSA, OKLA. — What are glitz, glamour, poise and talent, without a lot of raucous fun? Pageant's beauty queens have it all- - and then some, as all these are portrayed by men in this production of the farcical Off-Broadway hit that's a send up of beauty Pageants - and it's a musical!

One of the rowdiest farces ever staged, Pageant pits six beauty queens against each other in the Glamouresse annual extravaganza. These beauties will sing, dance, and camp it up in gowns and casual wear. A hilarious contest that is equaled only by the zany "spokesmodel" event that requires them to hawk the sponsor's outrageous cosmetics. While the girls swirl around the charming host, judges from the audience will decide who will be crowned Miss Glamouresse.

Miss Deep South, Miss Bible Belt, Miss Industrial Northeast, Miss Great Plains, Miss Texas and Miss West Coast, will take the stage and steal your hearts while competing for the crown and the title of "Miss Glamouresse" at the Doenges Theatre beginning on September 17. And the winner is? Well, that's up to you, because judges will be picked from the audience.

Director & Musical Director, Don Armstrong

Called "screamingly funny!" by the New York Times, Pageant is a beauty contest unlike any other.
